

Bevlo - Budapest, Hungary

Design textile retail company

Bevlo is a company selling textile and fabric for interior design. Located in the heart of Budapest, the showroom of the business plays a key-part for the owners. Established in a genuine gallery, it allows them to exhibit all the tissue offered. It was then essential for the company to receive the customers in the best conditions and to showcase the items the best way possible.

Convinced by the user-friendliness combined with the quality of the system, the owners appealed to Domintell to equip the gallery with an all-around building automation system. Thanks to our technology, Bevlo can entirely configure and control its lighting, from the floor to the ceiling. Textiles and fabrics are then optimally displayed, based on the taste and choices of the owners, thanks to customized configurations for harmonious and dimmable light atmospheres. The lighting can also smartly adapt depending on numerous factors: the building lights up at opening, the outside sign is on for scheduled hours, etc.

The smart system is not only dedicated to the lighting since it also controls the ventilation system, the air-conditioning system and the heating. The whole building is controlled from pushbuttons or even remotely through a smartphones and tablets app.

Testimony

“ It was necessary for us to showcase our products with a lighting and a configuration suiting our vision of design. We appealed to Domintell to make it happen easily and to be able to extend its role beyond lighting, in order to optimize our studio. Here, Domintell allows us to open and close the building in all simplicity with a single push on a button or a screen. We also configured our install so that the temperature measured by our thermostats (integrated in the buttons) directly trigger actions from the automated control of the climate inside the building.”

Zoom on the GoldenGate software

After 18 years of good services, the Domintell2 software is replaced with a fully new version named GoldenGate. Including all the features of the original software, GoldenGate maintains the user-friendliness Domintell was popular for, with always more customizable configurations. However, it reshapes the whole tool so that it could perform with new technologies, such as the internet of things and Bluetooth® 5, through a better integration with modern Mac, Windows and Linux operating systems. With GoldenGate, it has never been funnier to configure your installation powered by the Domintell system.
